Be respectful of the hotel, your surroundings, of yourselves and each other in maintaining a mature behavior at all times. Unruliness and noise after hours is not tolerated. Traveling with a group demands maturity, responsibility and patience. We are particularly keen to guard against personal misbehavior and substance abuse. If you harbor other ideas, it is your option to travel on your own. The AUR student code of conduct will be diligently enforced during our field trips together. Read it.

Be well aware of your surroundings. Do not leave your personal belongings (bags, purses or drinks) unattended at any time and carefully avoid walking on your own late at night.

Whilst every attempt is made to follow the itinerary as described here, sometimes events occur beyond our control that forces us to change it. Please listen attentively to all announcements made by the administrators.

Please read this book before arriving in Rome.

Diary Journal and Sketchpad.

A Rome Travel Guide & Italian Phrase Book and/or Dictionary are highly recommended.

This course offers a four-week introduction to the major monuments and sites of ancient Rome. Along the way, of course, we will also see Rome through the centuries and different eras: Late Antique, Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, Papal and secular, Fascist, and modern Rome of the 21st-century.

The Summer Program is formally two courses, but they are integrated. The grading of History 190 is based on participation and reports on the site visits as well as weekly submission of entries from a daily journal and sketches of ancient architecture and/or art. The grading of History 110 is based on exams and a final paper (due August 28).

Classes will begin each day promptly at 8:30am at the American University. Each class will last until about 12:30 pm or until we finish the site visit. On Thursdays, we will often be at a site or away from the city for the entire day. On all other days (Monday- Thursdays), we will meet between 4-5 for class to discuss the material. On some days, we will then go to visit some of Rome’s most famous piazzas, fountains, churches or museums (hours will vary, but most reopen from the hours of 4:00 to 7:00pm). Daily schedules may be subject to change and announced each evening for the next day.

Daily site visits will include both informal lectures and discussion. The class will be divided into individual groups of three for class reports. Each group will be responsible for giving an oral report on one work of ancient Roman architecture. Topics and Site visits include: two Roman arches (Arches of Septimius Severus or of Constantine); two imperial fora (Forum of Augustus or of Trajan); the Flavian Amphitheater (better known as the Colosseum), and Mausoleum of Hadrian.

In addition, we will have a weekend excursion to Pompeii, Capri and Sorrento. Excursions include site visits to Ostia, Hadrian’s Villa, the Colosseum, the Baths of Caracalla, the Forum of Trajan and of Augustus, the excavations under St. Peter’s, and many more!
